True Democracy

"A life long Democrat" writes to us that he is [illegible] whenever Northern traitors assume to be Democrats, and call their meetings for conspiracy against the Government, Democratic conventions No doubt and every honest man ought to feel as he does It is unfortunate that all those who sympathize with treason should prefer to steal the livery of a name once honored, under which to hide their infernal purposes, and by which they seek to deceive and hoodwink the masses who are apt to be captivated by party watch words

But in our judgment there are no Democrats who are not loyal to the country Democracy, if it has any meaning signifies fidelity to the Republic and to the Union, above and beyond all else—a willing obedience to the laws, and a cheerful support of the officers, fairly elected by the people to execute them This fidelity and this support, are the touchstones by which Democracy is most surely tested If a man has these he is a Democrat in the highest and best sense If he has not, if he does not make his faith known and active by his patriotic deeds, he is no more entitled to the name of Democrat than the devil is to that of saint Those who profess to be Democrats, while they oppose by word or action, every thing done for the suppression of the rebellion, and the enforcement of the laws of the Union in all parts of it are simply base traitors or the foolish followers of those who are so We can pity those who are misled and deluded by a good name falsely used but the whole loyal North ought to scourge with whips of scorpions, the unprincipled and knavish politicians who are striving to sell national life and liberty for the worthless hope of party triumph over vital principles

Borrowing Trouble —The question of the position and what shall be done with the colored population of the South, after the rebellion is ended, adds greatly and we think foolishly to the bitterness of party discussions and conflicts Loyal men can well afford to postpone that issue for the present The first thing for them to do is to crush the conspiracy against our national existence, by united arms and hearts, when that is accomplished, there will be time enough to settle all questions of doubt or of expediency, as to institutions not vital, but simply incidental Let us leave to Confederates North as well as South, all the subordinate issues which they seem to think are above the life of the nation, while we care for and secure that then, we have no doubt, there will be abundant opportunity and sufficient good and patriotic sense to decide fully and justly every matter of policy or of right, that concerns the prosperity of any State as well as of the whole nation Till then, the entire energy of the nation should be concentrated upon the single, all important issue which the war has forced upon us and when we have proved that we have a Government which cannot be broken or destroyed, we shall also be able to show that we know how to protect all rights under it

Military Matters —We understand that orders will soon be issued from the Head quarters of the Department of the Pacific for the consolidations of regiments which have been reduced by desertion or otherwise to less than the minimum number required by the rules of the service It is supposed this may operate upon the regiments raised in this State and for Washington Territory by Col Steinberger, though we have not learned which will be retained the officers of the other, not assigned to companies, will we suppose be mustered out of service

Our correspondent, "Justice," must excuse us for declining at present to publish his article in reference to the case of Capt Noble We cannot believe that the General commanding this District, who is eminently kind hearted and anxious to do his duty to every one, has permitted any feeling, save the highest care for the integrity and loyalty of the army to actuate him, and we are sure also that the Governor of the State will take care of the rights of all our citizens Under these circumstances, a discussion of the questions suggested, seems to us untimely

Another Homicide —The Dalles Journal reports that F W McDaniels, formerly Deputy Sheriff of Wasco county, was shot at Canyon City, by Van Tichnor, the Boise express man, on the 6th inst, and died on the following Saturday His funeral was under the direction of the Masonic fraternity and was largely attended No further particulars are given, except that an investigation was in progress when the informant left Canyon City

Gallant Conduct of an Oregon Officer We observe by our exchanges that Lieutenant George Williams of the regular army son of Hon. Elijah Williams of Salem, in this State, distinguished himself by his fearless and patriotic bravery at the recent battle of Gettysburg, though we regret that he was so severely wounded that it was necessary to amputate one of his legs He was recovering rapidly according to the last reports

Who Fight the Battles of the South The Northern organs of the rebellion and the rebel correspondents of the British press have often harped upon the alleged fact that the wealthy scions of the chivalry were showing their devotion to the cause by fighting in the ranks of the rebel armies and undergoing all the hardships of common soldiers The object of this was to excite sympathy for the self sacrificing patriot Governor Joseph Brown of Georgia in a recent message, thus exposes the misrepresentation

The armies of the Confederate States are composed in a great degree, of men and non slaveholders who have but little property staked upon the issue The rights and liberties of themselves and their posterity are however, involved and with hearts full of patriotism they have nobly and promptly responded to their country's call, and now stand a living fortification between their homes and the armed legions of an abolition Government It must be admitted however, that a large proportion of the wealthy class of our people have avoided the fevers of the camp and the dangers of the battle field, and have remained at home, in comparative ease and comfort with their families If the conscripting officer under the Conscript Act has summoned them to the camp they have claimed exemption to control their slaves, or they have responded with their money, and hired poor men to take their places as substitutes The operation of this Act has been grossly unjust and unequal between the two classes

The oligarchy have been saving themselves in anticipation of future dominion over those who are now fighting their battles

Criticisms upon Gen Meade's Delay —The new commander of the Army of the Potomac has discovered long before this, that his position is not a bed of roses His failure to attack Lee while north of the Potomac, caused great disappointment, and almost changed the current of applause that seemed universal a week before into one of abusive distrust So variable is the breath of popular admiration that crowds who were ready to crown him with laurels one day in the next cried out for his removal and that Grant should be called to take his place The people demand constant victories and will be satisfied with no one who does not win them, making no allowance for the fact, that while Meade was anxious to attack Lee immediately after the battle of Gettysburg, his officers insisted that the army, all of which had been engaged in the fight, was not in a condition to renew the contest without delay sufficient to recuperate its exhausted energies He yielded to their suggestions, and Lee escaped, but his anxious prudence has opened against him the floodgates of criticism and blame, which now threaten to sweep him from his position and almost to wash away his well earned fame

Olympia Correspondence —We have received a long communication from "U E H" fully justifying his suggestions in previous letters as to the duplicity and utter want of principle of the Surveyor General of Washington Territory, but as its publication would take more space than we care to give to the discussion of the conduct of a worthless official, who owes his position not to fitness or merit we postpone it for the present

Dr. Henry is very busy in asserting that we desire to injure him, but we can assure him that nothing which can be written or published will harm him half so much as his own conduct in numerous instances, both in and out of office, has done, and also that his course is so thoroughly known, and so generally scorned by fair men of all parties, that any just remark made in regard to it, is apt to be thought an old story, about which all have made up their minds and all agree

A Young Rebellion —The California papers report that a small secession performance is going on at Visalia in that State The Union men and their opponents are greatly exasperated Matters seemed to look very serious Unless troops reach there in time to overawe the secesh, a terrible conflict will ensue The Wells House was burned last night The secessionists threaten retaliation and declare civil war commenced If they burn a house the Union men and soldiers will drive every one from the country or die themselves Gordon, Douglas, Tilden, Reed and Robert Heuston, concerned in the shooting affray in which Sergeant Strobee was killed, are under arrest

The proof is positive against Heuston The civil authorities refuse to act unless Col Jones is empowered to declare martial law Gen Wright has telegraphed to the commandant at Visalia to distribute all surplus arms among the loyal citizens He has also ordered a cavalry company thither from Owen's river, carrying with them surplus arms for distribution to loyal citizens

The Capture of Chattanooga —A dispatch announcing the capture and occupation of Chattanooga appears in the New York papers of the 10th of July and the World of that date has the following paragraph in relation to this most important achievement

The capture of Chattanooga by General Rosecrans is a matter which has attracted very little attention as yet It is almost as important an announcement as the surrender of Vicksburg The latter gave us the Mississippi but Chattanooga is the key to the whole internal railway system of the South East Tennessee now becomes ours as a matter of course and the mountain region which splits the South like a wedge passes naturally into our control Chattanooga in its way, means as much as Vicksburg

Enormous Salaries —The Congressional Investigating Committee in the New York Custom house has discovered that the heads of that institution receive the following salaries Collector Barney $8[illegible],000 per annum, Surveyor Andrews $81,1[illegible]0, and naval officer Dennison, $81,000 Their incomes are in a great measure dependent on the war, but we think the people of the country would prefer that some legislation should be made which would effectually stop the possibility of allowing to three office holders the extravagant sum of over $250 000 annually at a time when the land is groaning under burdens grievous to be borne

Emancipation in Tennessee —We find in the New York Tribune the following extracts from the Nashville Union They indicate a growing emancipation sentiment in Tennessee The Union is an earnest advocate of the measure It says

We believe that slavery is an enormous curse, which will destroy our country if the country does not destroy it We believe that the first step to peace, and union is the destruction of that abominous institution, which Jefferson denounced as the plague and scourge of the white race which Washington and John Marshall abhorred and which Henry Clay called in his later years "The greatest curse of all human evils" A large slaveholder of Middle Tennessee a man of fine intelligence, informed us not long ago, that he knew more than fifty large planters and slaveholders in his county who were earnest emancipationists and free labor men He showed us that the cause of anti slavery and free labor was gaining ground rapidly in this region Intelligent and honest men who were never infected in the slightest degree with abolitionism are fast becoming convinced that the system of African slavery has had its day in Tennessee and that its presence here forward can only be a most terrible and unendurable curse We firmly believe that in a very short time the cause of free labor will advance as fast here as it is now doing in Missouri The pro slavery fetich worshippers read the handwriting on the wall which dooms the odious system which stinks in the nostrils and offends the eyes of all Christendom, and howl with impotent rage after escaping over the Kentucky line Of course, we speak of the ultras only The great body of the pro slavery men are disposed to acquiesce in the course of events so that when the struggle comes on there will be a struggle, there will be really less opposition to a wise system of emancipation than there is in Missouri Tennessee will certainly put aside slavery and noble old Kentucky will then be belted with the golden girdle of freedom [illegible] will not touch a foot of slave territory

These are very positive expressions of anti slavery views to be published in a slaveholding State Before the Union army captured Nashville, the publication of such sentiments would have insured a man a coat of tar and feathers, if not a cell in the penitentiary Before open discussion, slavery will fall in a very few years in any of the Southern States not classed as cotton States The debate on the question has opened in Tennessee and is likely to continue until the institution disappears Slavery can be argued down any where except in the mind of a bigoted copperhead

The People Won't Rise —The Meridian (Miss) correspondent of the Knoxville Register, writing on June 9, says

The proclamation of Gov Pettus and Gen Johnston, urging the people of Mississippi to rise en masse to take up arms will add but little strength to the Southern armies By some agency the people were induced at times to conceive the possible results of a revolution in which, with unparalleled zeal they embarked their lives and fortunes An invasion of their own State was not anticipated They believed that Kentucky and Tennessee would furnish all the battle fields to become memorable through all time, and that the actual presence of invading armies was absolutely impossible They succumb to unforeseen calamities, while the courage of Tennessee has risen with their increased pressure and magnitude

Some of their leaders were wont to advise them that they need apprehend no danger Kentucky and Tennessee were deemed insuperable barriers to Northern aggressions but now, when armed plunderers penetrate the State, the people, like a general who fo[illegible] poses overweening confidence in the security of his position finding themselves suddenly assailed, are incapable of effective action Surprise deprives them of self possession, and they tremble and fly on the approach of danger

A few counties will respond nobly to the call for volunteers, but from all indications it will be found impossible to arouse the whole population.

The Lesson —The recent raids into Maryland and Pennsylvania exemplify the condition of society which would follow a recognition of the independence of the Confederacy The question of boundary could not be settled without bloodshed, as there is no natural frontier line to mark the division A parallel of latitude would be so jealously watched for fear of infringement that a soldier must guard every rod of the established frontier, while the border belt would become a nursery for lawless adventurers who like the cowboys of the Revolution, would plunder all parties indiscriminately A border war is always cruel and sanguinary, because it is not waged by the fixed rules which humanity has imposed for the government of belligerents, and were it does exist there is no security for life and property, because there is no law but the law of force recognized by those who are the participants

Fancied wrongs, as well as actual injuries would be redressed by forays and raids If the North lost a sheep, the South must deliver a hog in recompense, and if the South lost a slave, its whole army would be ready to invade the North. If ever the great avenue of neutrality is established where the people of two separate republics can meet without quarreling, we may erect there a temple to Janus who presides over all avenues, but if he holds a key in one hand he has a rod in the other which betokens that transit and punishment are both to be expected from his jurisdiction We may safely presume that the gates of this temple will be always open, unless we can be blessed with a Numa to draw his inspirations from a goddess or an Augustus, to bring about a new golden age, without these the portals of the temple can never be closed as the sign of peace There is no delusion more fatal than the idea that any permanent pacification can result from a division of the Union Such a step would lead to endless war and unprecedented barbarities The cause of liberty and free institutions is involved in the preservation of the Union intact while ruin, desolation and anarchy will inevitably follow its dissolution We can then have but one aim the restoration of the Union, the maintenance of the Constitution and the enforcement of the laws over all the country —Louisville Journal

Idaho Territory —The 9th Section of the Organic Act provides that only those are entitled to vote at the first election who were actual residents of Idaho on the day the law passed, the 3d day of March last Eligibility to office is confined to the same class This narrow restriction if enforced will reduce the vote very greatly, and will perhaps check the political aspirations of a good many adventurers who have looked upon the new Territory as good diggings for them

No News —We are again without news by telegraph, the absence of which is explained by the following note dated Yreka, August 12th

To the Oregonian —The Overland line was down on Sunday since which time the line between here and San Francisco has been cut in order All will probably be right to morrow, OPERATOR

A Sensible Project.—We are glad to learn that several of our most enterprising merchants are taking active measures to urge upon Congress the propriety and necessity of making Portland a port of entry, and of establishing here a Branch Mint and a Marine Hospital. This movement ought to be successful, and we have no doubt that it will be so, if the good and sufficient reasons for it can be understood and enforced at Washington. All foreign merchandise imported is delivered here, and duties are paid by our citizens, who ought not to be compelled to go more than a hundred miles to transact business which may be necessary with the revenue officers at Astoria. The importance of a Mint is manifest, when the large and increasing receipts of treasure from the northern mines are considered. There is no reason why its owners should be compelled to sacrifice a large per centage by way of freight and insurance, to put it where it can be coined. In regard to the Hospital, it is well known that for many years, every seaman who entered the port has been paying hospital dues at Astoria to the Government, which as yet has made no suitable provision for their relief in case of sickness. It is high time, as a work of simple justice, that a Hospital should be built or purchased, and we trust it will not be longer delayed.

Dedication.—The dedication of the new Beth-Israel School-house, to which reference was made in our issue of August 1st, took place at 10 o'clock last Saturday. The pupils of the school, 35 in number, assembled at their old rooms in the rear of the Synagogue, and, bearing a beautiful Union flag, marched in fine order to the new school-house, which was already filled with the parents and friends of the scholars. The company were then entertained with speeches and songs, in English and German, by the young ladies and gentlemen of the school, after which Master Myer Harris recited Drake's Ode to the American Flag. The "Star Spangled Banner" was then sung by six of the pupils; and was followed by a chanted Hebrew prayer. Mr. Mansfield then addressed a few remarks to the scholars, and introduced Governor Gibbs, who delivered a very eloquent and appropriate address relative to their privileges and duties, at the close of which he was loudly applauded by the scholars. The proceedings terminated with three lusty cheers for the American flag.

The Weather yesterday was exceedingly variable—in the morning cold and showery, and in the evening clear and mild. The thermometer at ten o'clock A. M. indicated 63°, in-doors, and at four o'clock in the evening 65°.

Recorder's Court.—No case of public interest has been brought before the Recorder since Friday. All excitement concerning the late trumped-up charge against Michael Fink for robbing Dr. Davenport, has died out, and the real perpetrators of that daring transaction are still unknown.

Arrived.—A large number of passengers arrived in the steamer Julia on Saturday evening from the upper country. Messrs. Wells, Fargo & Co., received only a very small amount of gold dust, though a considerable quantity is reported to have been brought by private parties.

Thanks.—We acknowledge the courtesy of W. S. Ogden, Esq., late Secretary of Legation at the Sandwich Islands, who arrived in this city on Saturday evening, via Victoria, and furnished us with late files of Honolulu and Victoria papers.

Broke.—We are informed that the steamer Rival, plying between this place and Oregon City, broke her crank, near Milwaukie, on Saturday, while on her way up the river. The E. D. Baker immediately went to her assistance, took the freight to Oregon City, and returning towed the Rival to her wharf.

The Jibbenainosay.—There was above an average attendance at the Willamette Theater on Saturday evening to witness the performance of the popular melodrama of "Nick of the Woods." Mr. Waldron as the "Jibbenainosay," fully sustained the great reputation he has deservedly won by his effective rendering of this character, and was frequently applauded during the evening. In this drama all the minor characters are lost in the "Jibbenainosay," in whom is centred the entire interest of the piece. It is thus with all dramas "got-up" to display individual forte. We were much impressed with the peaceful and harmless aspect of the blood-thirsty Shawnees—they invariably expired with a resignation and docility truly touching to behold.

On Tuesday evening, Mr. E. A. Reeves, who has long been a favorite with the patrons of the drama, will take his first benefit in this city. His bill is a most attractive one, comprising the impressive drama of "Raffaelle, the Reprobate," and the last act of Richard III, together with singing, dancing, &c.

Drowned.—Jacob Rabmann, a German, was drowned in the Clackamas river, near Union School-house, on Friday morning last. He was on his way to Oregon City, and attempted to cross the river at a rapid near the farm of Mr. H. Baker, which he supposed to be fordable. Mr. Baker, on seeing him start to cross, beckoned and shouted to him to go back, but he either did not understand these warnings or disregard them, as he continued to advance still further into the river. The current being too deep and strong for fording, his horse lost its footing, and he was swept out of sight down the river. His horse reached the shore in safety. Rabmann was employed by Mr. Wm. Young, of this city, in quarrying. He was a member of Capt. Powell's military company.

A Democrat upon Copperheadism

The following speech of Benjamin H Brewster, of Philadelphia, delivered at a late Union meeting in New York, is worthy of perusal. Brewster very pertinently puts the point that the leaders of the Copperhead party are "runaway Whigs." If a true Democrat had been told ten years ago that such men as William B Reed, Peter McCall, George M Wharton and Josiah Randall, of Pennsylvania, were to become high priests and leaders of the Democratic party, he would have hooted at the idea, and boldly said that when that day came the party would be utterly ruined.

Fellow Citizens: With some misgivings, I have consented to come here. It is my wish so to act in all my public demonstrations upon the important subject that has called you here, and which agitates the minds of all men in America, that I may not blunt the measure of my usefulness by over action. For I have not come out from my privacy to make myself the advocate of a party, or by zealous declamation to urge the promotion of any one. Nothing but a sense of duty has stimulated me to come from the quiet of my study into such vast throngs of anxious and excited men. (Cheers.) From my earliest youth I have been connected with the Democratic party, identified with its principles, and associated with its public characters. From its first organization, kinsmen of mine have held its highest honors and been its firmest advocates. All this has bound me to it with hooks of steel. In the darkest hours of its adversity I have never lost my faith in it or its leaders. I have a right to speak for it and to speak to it. When in Pennsylvania I look round and see it commanded by runaway Whigs, who have spent their time in systematic opposition to its measures and its men, and hear them lay down the law for the rank and file, and hear them declare the rule of faith, I am amazed at their audacity, and ashamed of the submissive spirit of those they profess to speak for and to lead. But more than that, and worse than that, I hear those men defile the sanctuaries of our political conventions by teachings that are heterodox, by statements that are untrue, and by policies of action that are treasonable, and so I have come here by the advice of judicious men to say away from home that which I have willingly said there, that Democrats are not bound by any obligation of party allegiance to follow such "blind leaders of the blind." They are not to heed the teachings of men whose political, personal, and social natures are, in their very elements, hostile to their party and antagonistic to its principles. Their lives, their associations, and their proclaimed opinions, are all in open war with the Democratic party as a party, and with Democratic measures as a rule of government. At such a crisis as this how dare such men stand up and lay down the rule of action for that political church whose catechism they have not yet learned? I say how dare they strive to teach treason and tell party men that such foul teachings are the logical results of their political faith? One might suppose they had banded together to betray and calumniate the party they profess to lead. Democrats of New York, I say to you, as I have said to the Democrats of Pennsylvania, that such men are not of you, and are not with you, and should be spurned by you. When we had a united and triumphant party we only knew them as our avowed enemies, and now we only know them as our corrupters and betrayers. Let us not now, with armed men in the field—with our banners soiled and trampled on, with the principles of our Government in peril, and our honor questioned—let us not follow such men into the gulf of faction, nor hope to maintain party by sundering our country. Let us have a country first before we have a party! Let us have laws obeyed before we have organizations to elect officers to administer laws that are despized. [Cheering.] The men who broke down the Democratic party by secession from its fold, now demand its help and command obedience to its laws to secure them success in their open resistance to all public authority, and they have found those men in the North who are weak enough or base enough to help them in their treason. The last who should encourage this outrage and public sin are Democrats. By the ballot they were beaten, and by its final decree are they bound. Suffrage and obedience to the popular will are at the very foundation of Democracy. How, then, can Democrats stand by men as Democrats who are disloyal to their own faith, and resist the declared will of the people, and refuse obedience to the duly appointed officers of the law? Those who would act otherwise, those who would teach otherwise have no business here. Their place is with the enemy. Their home should be in the South. [Great applause.] I do not complain that men speak out their ideas, but I do complain that when they speak they speak political blasphemy. Freedom of speech I would not abridge; but licentiousness of speech is not freedom. Scoffing, reviling, railing and denouncing, is not freedom, it is crime—it is sin. What produced this war? Did the States that first rebelled lose their negroes? No, not one. Did those that lost their negroes willingly enter into this conflict? No! they were dragged into it. The cause of this war was that the far off Gulf States could not endure the freedom of speech and liberty of the press here, a thousand miles up—far up in the North. And now we are told that the Democrats are to rally and overthrow the Government, by fair or foul means, to vindicate the liberty of speech and the liberty of the press. Remember, gentlemen, we have the largest liberty. The Government we obey is one of our own choice. The officers who strive to execute the laws, under difficulties such as never encompassed men in a free Government before, are faithful, single minded, honest men, and they merit your support and it is your duty, freely and without grudge to give it. [Applause.] Setting aside all other considerations, I am for this war as a duty to my section—to compel obedience to law; to reduce a rival and hostile section; to prevent foreign treaties with a new and feeble power within our territorial limits, to uphold the honor of our country before the world, and to prove the strength of Democratic institutions, to enforce obedience to law as absolutely as an imperial Cæsar. This occasion will not permit many words. This is my testimony and I trust others of my political persuasion will think with me and act with me for our country, our whole country and nothing but our country. [Great applause.] And I say to you that the Northern man who will give his sympathy to Southern men who call him a dog and a coward is worse than a dog and deserves to be spit upon. [Great applause.] And now, gentlemen, I go for prosecuting this war, "nigger or no nigger." I go for it for the reasons I have stated, and if we do not succeed, I go for crippling the rebels so that their devilish independence won't be worth a straw. [Great laughter and applause.]
